

~~820. -~~

820. - In case of loss or damage not discovered from the external condition of the goods, no compensation is due unless notice of loss or damage ~~is~~ is given to the warehouseman within eight days after withdrawal.

821. - If no time for the return of the goods was fixed, the warehouseman ~~can~~ may return etc.

823. - .....
..... the warehouseman ~~can~~ may notify etc.

If the depositor fails to comply with the notice, the warehouseman ~~can~~ may sell the goods by public auction.

824. - (Redrafted as follows:) If required by the depositor, the warehouseman must deliver to him a document taken out from a special Counterfoiled Register and including a warehouse receipt and a warrant in the form provided by Schedule A attached to this Code. <sup>(1)</sup>

825. - (Redrafted as follows:) The warehouse receipt entitles the depositor to transfer the ownership of the goods to another person by indorsement.

826. - (Redrafted as follows:) The warrant entitles the depositor to pledge the goods mentioned in it by indorsement and without delivering such goods to the indorsee.

Provided that when the depositor wants to pledge the goods, he must separate the warrant from the warehouse receipt and deliver the former to the indorsee.

827. - The warehouse receipt and the warrant must each bear the same serial number as mentioned in the counterfoil, and be signed by the warehouseman.

(1) It is of interest for the Revising Committee to know that Chapter II of the Warehousing (Warehouse Receipt and Warrant) has caused a long & careful exchange of views between the Commission of Codification and Dr. James. Finally Dr. James has withdrawn all objections and said that he was convinced that the system of the Code in this matter is the best. But a number of sections have been redrafted, by common agreement, in order to make the whole as clear as is desirable in such a technical matter.
