

829. - (Redrafted as follows:) When the depositor pledges the goods and delivers the warrant to an indorsee, such indorsee must notify in writing to the warehouseman the amount of the obligation for the security of which the goods are pledged, the interest to be paid and the day of maturity of the obligation; and upon such notification the warehouseman must enter such particulars in the counterfoil.

If such mention is not made, the pledge cannot be set up against the creditors of the depositor.

830. - (Redrafted as follows:) The holder of the document including a warehouse receipt and a warrant may require the warehouseman to divide the goods stored and to deliver to him a separate document for each part. In such case the holder must return the original document to the warehouseman.

The expenses for such division and for the delivery of new document or documents must be borne by the holder.

833. - As long as the goods stored are not pledged, the warehouse receipt and the warrant ~~can~~ may not be transferred separately.
