

DIVISION IV. — EFFECTS OF OBLIGATIONS.

TITLE I. GENERAL PROVISIONS.

218. — An obligation is binding upon the parties to it.

It is also binding upon the heirs of the parties to the extent provided by the laws on Inheritance.

It cannot affect the rights of third persons.

219. — A party to a contract who promises that a third person shall make a prestation is bound to make compensation if such prestation is not made.

ILLUSTRATION. — A sells to B a carriage, and promises that C shall sell to B a pony that has been used for the carriage. If C refuses to sell the pony to B, B is entitled to compensation from A.

220. — If a party to a contract agrees to make a prestation to a third person the other party is entitled to claim that the prestation be made to such third person.

The third person also can claim directly performance from the debtor.

DIVISION IV.—EFFECTS OF OBLIGATIONS.

TITLE I

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

218.—An obligation is binding upon the parties to it.

It is also binding upon the heirs of the parties to the extent provided by the laws on Inheritance.

It cannot affect the rights of third persons.

219.—A party to a contract who promises that a third person shall make a prestation is bound to make compensation if such prestation is not made.

ILLUSTRATION.—A sells to B a carriage, and promises that C shall sell to B a pony that has been used for the carriage. If C refuses to sell the pony to B, B is entitled to compensation from A.

220.—If a party to a contract agrees to make a prestation to a third person the other party is entitled to claim that the prestation be made to such third person.

The third person also can claim directly performance from the debtor.