

contract. A enters an action for compensation against C. Under the first paragraph of Section 275 A would be entitled as compensation to 7½% interest on 10,000 baht from the 1st. of June until execution of judgment. But if the injury and loss of benefit suffered by him exceed such interest, the Court may grant him compensation for the surplus.

276. — In each particular case, the Court shall decide whether the compensation granted by its judgment shall bear interest and, if so, from what date.

ILLUSTRATION. — I — A contracts to supply B with rice mill machinery. A does not deliver the machinery, B suffers injury thereby and enters an action for compensation in Court. The Court grants to B 5,000 baht damages. The Court shall decide whether A shall also pay interest on these 5,000 baht up to date of payment of the capital. If the Court decides that A shall pay interest, the Court shall also decide from what date interest is to be reckoned, that is to say whether interest on the 5,000 baht shall be reckoned from date of judgment, or from date of entry of action, or from date of non-performance of the contract or from any other date as the Court may think fit.

II. — A is run over by B's motor car and injured. The Court grants him 2,000 baht damages. The Court shall decide whether B shall pay interest or not on that sum up to execution of judgment. If interest is allowed, the rate shall be 7½% per annum (Section 23) and the Court shall decide whether it shall be paid from the date of judgment, or from date of entry of the action, or from date of accident or from any other date as the Court may think fit.

contract. A enters an action for compensation against C. Under the first paragraph of Section 275 A would be entitled as compensation to 7 1/2 % interest on 10,000 baht from the 1st. of June until execution of judgment. But if the injury and loss of benefit suffered by him exceed such interest, the Court may grant him compensation for the surplus.

276.—In each particular case, the Court shall decide whether the compensation granted by its judgment shall bear interest and, if so, from what date.

ILLUSTRATION.—I—A contracts to supply B with rice mill machinery. A does not deliver the machinery, B suffers injury thereby and enters an action for compensation in Court. The Court grants to B 5,000 baht damages. The Court shall decide whether A shall also pay interest on these 5,000 baht up to date of payment of the capital. If the Court decides that A shall pay interest, the Court shall also decide from what date interest is to be reckoned, that is to say whether interest on the 5,000 baht shall be reckoned from date of judgment, or from date of entry of action, or from date of non-performance of the contract or from any other date as the Court may think fit.

II.—A is run over by B's motor car and injured. The Court grants him 2000 baht damages. The Court shall decide whether B shall pay interest or not on that sum up to execution of judgment. If interest is allowed, the rate shall be 7 1/2 % per annum (Section 23) and the Court shall decide whether it shall be paid from the date of judgment, or from date of entry of the action, or from date of accident or from any other date as the Court may think fit.