

72. — The guardian is entitled only to such part of the earnings of the minor and of the income of his property as is necessary for the support and education of the minor.

He must account to the minor for the surplus.

73 — On extinction of guardianship the return of the property which was under the management of the guardian and the settlement of accounts are governed, mutatis mutandis, by sections 63 to 67 concerning parental power.

III. — ACTS DONE BY A MINOR.

74. — In so far as he is admitted to do so by the special laws relating thereto, a minor can do by himself any act which by reason of its nature cannot be done through a representative, such as marrying, making a will or tendering an oath.

75. — A minor can do by himself all acts which are customary in the ordinary course of daily life having due regard to his age, means and position.

76. — Acts other than those described in the two precedent sections are valid if done by the minor with the assistance of his lawful representative and, in the cases described in sections 55 and 56, with the previous consent of the Court.

77. — An act done by the minor beyond the scope of his capacity as described by the two precedent sections is voidable only if its consequences are likely to cause injury to the minor.

72.—The guardian is entitled only to such part of the earnings of the minor and of the income of his property as is necessary for the support and education of the minor.

He must account to the minor for the surplus.

73 —On extinction of guardianship the return of the property which was under the management of the guardian and the settlement of accounts are governed, mutatis mutandis, by sections 63 to 67 concerning parental power.

III.—ACTS DONE BY A MINOR.

74.—In so far as he is admitted to do so by the special laws relating thereto, a minor can do by himself any act which by reason of its nature cannot be done through a representative, such as marrying, making a will or tendering an oath.

75.—A minor can do by himself all acts which are customary in the ordinary course of daily life having due regard to his age, means and position.

76.—Acts other than those described in the two precedent sections are valid if done by the minor with the assistance of his lawful representative and, in the cases described in sections 55 and 56, with the previous consent of the Court.

77.—An act done by the minor beyond the scope of his capacity as described by the two precedent sections is voidable only if its consequences are likely to cause injury to the minor.